The American Association for School Libraries has established a criteria for a highly effective media center that includes a ratio of 15-20 books available per student in the collection. At this time, Michael McCoy Elementary School does meet the recommended standards for the number of books per student.

The analysis of the collection also revealed the following areas of strengths and concerns:

- Students in this school improved on all the state achievement tests.
- Our ELLs now amount to 42%, which needs to be addressed and reflected in the collection.
- The average publication date of 2004 is older than desirable and needs to be improved.

- We only have 14 titles dealing with religion which needs to be increased to include more diverse titles in this category.
- Our literature section contains the oldest books in the collection. We need to check the relevance of the existing titles and weed accordingly.
- The average reading level of our collection is 3.6. We need more books catering to readers with higher reading capabilities.
